33RD AUSTRALASIAN TRANSPORT RESEARCH FORUM

CALL FOR PAPERS

The ATRF is recognised by both the public and private sectors as the main transport planning and policy forum in Australasia. The ATRF brings together policymakers, advisers, researchers and practitioners from transport disciplines to share and build upon the latest research and initiatives. It is hosted annually by Australian jurisdictions and New Zealand.

The 2010 forum will be hosted by the Bureau of Infrastructure, Transport and Regional Economics and the Australian Capital Territory Department of Territory and Municipal Services at the National Convention Centre in Canberra. Prospective contributors are now invited to put forward papers.

Abstracts of up to 200 words are requested by 29 January 2010. Papers may deal with any aspect of transport, including work in progress, and should be research-based. Relevant research papers which are directly related to the development of policies or strategies are especially encouraged. Instructions for paper preparation will be sent to authors as soon as their abstracts have been accepted.

Abstracts should include the following background material:

- main subject area and keywords
- name(s) and affiliations of author(s)
- a biography of the presenting author.

Further:

- the title should aim to be precise so that it conveys a clear message
- abstracts should contain brief but complete statements of introduction/study
- abstracts must not contain graphs, diagrams or complex tables
- references must not be included.

For abstracts with more than one author, only one person should submit the abstract; this person will be the contact for all correspondence.

The Planning and Transport Research Centre (PaTReC) of the Western Australian universities provides an electronic repository of ATRF papers from the previous 32 events and can be found at: <http://www.patrec.org/atrf.aspx> Researchers considering submitting a paper may find it beneficial to consult this site for guidance.

Abstracts can only be submitted electronically. Abstracts, and questions, can be sent to ATRF2010@infrastructure.gov.au.

Authors will be notified if their abstract has been accepted by Wednesday, 3rd March. Authors of accepted abstracts will be asked to prepare the full paper and submit it by Friday, 28th May, at which time papers will be sent to referees.
